To day, quite an interesting debate was had in the House upon the hill reported by Mr. Burnham, extending the mechanic's lien law of Louisville to the whole State—Messas. Marshall, Bursham, and McKee for the bill, and Mr. Williams against it.

It is thought that an adjournment will not take place until about the 10th of January. A great deal of important husiness has yet to be done. The whole statute law of the State, as well as the code of practice, have to be acted upon, and in all probability the 10th is as early as an adjournment can take place.

FOR PRESIDENT, STEPHEN A DOUGLAS, of Illinois. FOR VICE PRESIDENT, R. M. T. HUNTER, of Virginia.

THURSDAY, :: : DECEMBER 4, 1851.

THE SOW RETURNED TO HER WALLOWING IN THE Minn. - Our neighbor does make efforts at refor metion, and it gives us pleasure to bear testimony to a great improvement. He had an erticle the other day which did justice to the Hop. Robert Date Owen, but in the same parel we were torry to see a miserable attempt to be witty at the expense of General Joseph Lane. It is easy to be smart if one will only sacrifictruth and propriety.

The editor assumes that the nomination o General Lane for the presidency was only a ruse in the State of Ludiana. This will be news to the democracy of our neighboring State, and they must feel obliged to the editor of the Journal for giving them a hint of what they never auspected they were guilty of.

They need not be surprised, however, at our neighbor. He is greatly at fault just now, not knowing which way to turn.

Against General Lane he has no: a word seri onsty to say, and he must try and make himsel merry these sad times; he has no candidate of his own that has the most remote chance of an election.

A waggish cavalier, in the time of religiou and puritan, that having no religion of his own, be had ample time to attend to other people's. The editor of the Journal is in a similar condition. He has no candidate of his own, and therefore has plenty of time to attend to other people's. He knows it's useless to write about a whig, and hence he makes mouths at democrats spoken of. This is all the employment he will have for the next four years.

We suggest this by way of apology for him; for we intend to help him along in the progress block in question. sof improvement in manners and morals It is recoiled how bad he has been, and ument stone. justice ! don't expect too much.

It would puzzle the legislature a little to tell how the "sculptory manifests purity of blood," sessed in Newport, Ky. and perhaps a little more to explain how it "symbolizes the breed of the family heads," to which "Festus" claims to be attached. The hisfortune is, that a critic of such exalted pretensions in the fine arts, should have been overlooked by the Committee on Claims and Mr. P .. when they were endeavoring to ascertain the value of the monument stone.

STRADER'S HOTEL. (LATE PEARL ST. HOUSE.)

D. W. STRADER, Proprietor.
THE subscriber would moat respectfully inform his friends and the public in general, that he has the above house, and reflicted and farmabed time a tyle second to mone in the West. The location is one of the best in the city, being on Third street, between Main and Markat, and within one nundred yards of the mall-boat and Madison packet lending.

In the early part of the spring of 1849, a gentleman of this city, remarkable for that rotundity of form and smiling expression of tace which are generally the indication of good nature. free and easy manners, and a sober cast of thought, was suddenly seized with the California fever. His family consisted of a wife, and a baby taken from the orphan asylum. The anxiety which he exhibited to lodge and provision them during his inlended absence was the only care he was ever known to have experienced. But the wife was a loving and a dutiful one, and she declared her willingness to endure almost any privation to promote his welfare.

He departed for the land of gold, and she, after some hard struggles with poverty, obtained a stock of fancy goods through the aid of friends and opened a small store in the lower part of the city. No correspondence passed between the neglectful husband and his lonely wife, neither heard of the other from the time of his departure up to about the first of last month. On a Sunday morning, about that period, a large number of Californians arrived here in the steamer irom Havana. M-, the truant husband, was among them. On landing, he started immediately in pursuit of his wife, and in walking up Royal street unexpectedly saw her approaching him, leaning fondly on the arm of a portly gentleman, who seemed the exact coun- DEALERS IN CUTLERY AND HARDWARE, terpert of himself, and who was an old acquaintance of his M---- dodged round a corner until they passed, and then followed them, laughi ng to himsel in anticipation of the agreeable surprise which he would soon give his wife and old crony, who he supposed, gallanting her through friendship for himself .-They finally entered a neat little house in Casacalvo street, and M-was about to follow when the door was closed. A colored girl answered his knock, however, and he inquired for Mrs. M-He was told that no such person resided there, but he entered, notwithstanding, and stood in the presence of the persons he sought. He rushed forward to embrace his supposed wife and friend, and was cordially received by both; but becoming rather ardent in his attentions to the lady, her companion said: "My dear M- you appear to be laboring under a mistake. This lady is my wife. A divorce put you out of possesion more than a year ago." Some lite embarrassment followed, but nothing to mar the harmony which always exist. ed between the parties, and M-in a few days after returned to California. He declared, however, before he left, that he had also formed new matrimonial engagements, and merely returned to this city to gratify an intense curiosity relative to the condition and pursuits of name of the firm in tiquidation. his forsaken wife.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2, 1851. Wit of the Presidential Aspirants.—An excellent story is told here, which I have not yet seen in print. During the recent great fair at Rochester, a number of gentlemen met at a dinner party there. and among the galaxy of bright particulor stars was the distinguished orator of swille, Kentucky. The day, Stephen A. Douglas, and the distinguished ex-Secretary of War, Governor Marcy. The wit and the wine flew apace; and, at length, Governor Marcy, with one of those knowing looks of his, arose and proposed "the health of Mr. Douglas, the able Senator from Illinois—may he be continued for the the day, Stephen A. Douglas, and the next six years to fill his place in the Senate, which he has already so much graced." The meaning of the rally was evident, and Marcy's eyes twinkled with satisfaction at the "hit." Nowise abashed, however, "the little giant" straightened himself out, and after returning thanks, concluded by giving "the distinguished ex-Secretary of War, Governor Marcy, with not a spot on his character, and but one patch on his breeches." Peals of laughter succeeded the happy retort, shortly after which the Governor was missing.

The half of a vial expelled a great quantity of worms, some of them as thick as the little finger, after which the buy got perfectly well. I think in more than half the cases of sickness of children, the use of the Vermifuge will be all that is needed. I has saved many lives in this port of the country, and we think we could not do without it. In my son'a family, where there are several children, your Vermifuge is almost the only remedy they ever have occasion to use for the various aliments that Ittle ones are subject to. There is no remedy more generally known or more highly esteemed in west Teanessee than your Vermifuge, and it gives me pleasure to affer this lestimony to its excellence.
